TROOPS PATROL MINING TOWN

Peace Is Restored in Illinois
by State Militia

ALL SALOONS ARE CLOSED

Result of Armed Demonstration by Thousand Foreign Speaking Strikers Who Attempted to Awe Men Who Wished to Remain at Work—Strike Was Declared in Defiance of Orders of Officials of United Mine Workers

Gillespie, Ills., March 22.—Detachments of ten companies of the Illinois national guard are patrolling the mining town of Benld. The presence of troops has had a salutary effect on the striking miners, who for several days and even yesterday, joined in a demonstration to awe their brethren who wanted to return to work.

Operations in mine No 1 at Gillespie, and in one of the three shafts owned by the Superior Coal company at Benld will be resumed today. Wholesale arrests are to follow, according to the state attorney and the sheriff. Warrants will be issued for all who carried arms or had any other part in the riotous demonstration.

The twenty-three saloons were finally closed by order of Colonel Lang, who is in command of the militia.

All remained quiet after the patrols were placed, the men seemingly having no desire to match their shotguns and knives against the soldiers' rifles and bayonets.

One thousand strong, armed with a varied assortment of firearms, old rifles, muskets, shotguns and revolvers, and marching to the music of a band, the foreign-speaking miners conducted a demonstration against their English-speaking brethren yesterday, yelling to those who stood upon the sidewalks to get in line. The procession came from Benld, visited the mines, passed through the main street of Gillespie and then returned to Benld.

Throughout the night a vigilance committee of citizens patrolled the street on receipt of the news that the Benld miners had started for Gillespie. For half an hour the excitement was intense, but the procession passed through the town without a shot being fired.

The Superior Coal company owns three mines here with a daily output of about 10,000 tons of coal. These mines employ about 1800 men. Three months ago John P. Reese came to Gillespie from Iowa to take the superintendency of the properties, succeeding J. W. Miller, who was killed in a traction wreck in Benld. Reese made several reforms that were not favorably received by the foreign miners. The climax was reached ten days ago, when ninety men were discharged from the mines for improperly loading cars. A strike followed.

Last week the state officers of the United Mine Workers of Illinois ruled against the strike and ordered the men back to work. The foreign miners broke up the meeting which was called to act upon the decision of the state officials, and when the whistle blew for work Monday the miners were prevented from going to work by a force of 500 miners who marched from Benld and defied the authorities.

COAL MINERS QUIT WORK

Ten Thousand in Ohio Go Out in a Sympathetic Strike

Columbus, O., March 20.—Ten thousand coal miners in eastern Ohio mines went on strike by order of the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America. The strike is called in sympathy with the 2000 miners of the Tuscarawas field district who have been on strike since last May.

President Lewis, it is said, will take personal charge of the strike when he returns from Indianapolis. The miners say they are well prepared for a strike, having a fund of $500,000 which will be expended if necessary in order to win.

IN A CAGE: THIRTY YEARS

Lunatic Snared and Taken to Asylum After Mother Dies

Chicago, March 23.—George Odette, for thirty years bereft of reason and cared for in a steel cage in the garret of his mother's home near Waukegan until the mother died last week, was snared with ropes yesterday and taken to an insane asylum.

A shock from a galvanic battery at a county fair robbed Odette of his reason and he was sent to an asylum. When Mrs. Odette learned that her son had refused food and was dying of starvation she obtained his release on a promise to guard him.

Death of Adin Capron
Providence, March 19.—Adin B. Capron, congressman from Rhode Island for seven successive terms, died at his home at Smithfield, almost two weeks to a day from the completion of his fourteen years' service in the national house of representatives. He was 70 years old.

KILLED HIS PARENTS

Young Fitzgibbons Then Attempted to Burn Their Bodies

Ansonia, Conn., March 21.—Thomas Fitzgibbons, Jr., has confessed to the double murder of his father and mother here, in which, during a fit of insanity, he killed his father with an axe and his mother when she interfered, and attempted to burn the bodies by firing their home.

Before the bodies could be removed that of the elder Fitzgibbons was badly burned. A neighbor, Edward Fogarty, secured the son and held him until the arrival of the police.

Coroner Mix secured the confession from young Fitzgibbons during an inquest. Fitzgibbons was recently discharged from an insane retreat, and is declared to be insane.

KILLED ASSAILANT TO SAVE HONOR

Girl in Vermont Is Freed of the Charge of Murder

Rutland, Vt., March 21.—Camilla Covino, a 17-year-old Italian girl of Poulney, was freed of the charge of murdering Luigi Vermillo after a hearing lasting five and one-half hours in the Rutland district court. The girl pleaded justification.

She testified she shot Vermillo because he had made improper advances to her. The case was the first in which the "unwritten law" enters ever heard in Rutland county.

The girl took her discharge with the utmost coolness. Many of the women in the courtroom wept after Justice Swinnerton, who had presided through the hearing, had told Miss Covino she was free.

CUMMINS HELD IN $50,000

Carnegie Trust Director Charged With Larceny of $335,000

New York, March 22.—Out of the tangle of financial transactions which were first made known by the collapse of Joseph G. Robin's chain of banks, which were ruined by skyrocket financing, the grand jury has drawn the indictment of William J. Cummins, directing head of the Carnegie Trust company, for the alleged larceny of $335,000 from the institution a year ago.

Cummins pleaded not guilty, with leave to withdraw the plea. Bail in $50,000 was furnished.

Through Cummins' solicitation it is alleged that huge city deposits were obtained for the Carnegie Trust company shortly after the date of the alleged larceny with which he is charged in yesterday's indictments.

$100 FOR EACH BABY

Springfield, Ills., March 23.—Prevention of race suicide, the encouragement of increase in population and the taxation of bachelors are the features of two bills fathered in the senate by Senator Beall, otherwise known as the "stork mayor of Alton."

The first, or anti-race suicide bill, provides for the payment of $100 to the mother of each child born within two years after her marriage, and for each additional child born every two years.

The premium on twins is fixed at $200 and on triplets $300.

The other bill places a tax of $10 a year on bachelors over 35 years of age, the amount to be set aside for the payment of premiums to mothers.

Altman was drinking in the Briggs house buffet when his assailant fired the shots. He was taken to a hospital, where it was said he would die. The assailant escaped. Altman has been a labor leader for several years.

How Old People May Prolong Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

HERE IS THE PROOF

A case is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was breaking down by age and was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people. She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her, but VINOL made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

Taft and Cabinet Satisfied With Mexican Situation

HOPING FOR SPEEDY PEACE

Not Pleased at Limantour's Action in Holding Up United States as Bugaboo in Efforts to Reach Agreement With Rebels—Forces in Texas For Long Stay—Non-Combatants in Northern Mexico Suffer

Washington, March 23.—President Taft and his cabinet met yesterday for the first time in over two weeks. The Mexican situation was discussed briefly. The president and his cabinet advisers are very well satisfied with the situation and matters will remain at a standstill, so far as this government is concerned.

A strong hope is expressed in administration circles that conditions in Mexico will improve speedily. The Washington government is anxious that the two factions in Mexico shall get together.

Intense disappointment is expressed here, however, over the fact that Finance Minister Limantour has seen fit to seek a peace agreement by holding the United States up as a sort of bugaboo, and making statements to the effect that this government is waiting an opportunity to get into Mexico. Such statements are entirely unwarranted and are regarded here as not calculated to bring about good feelings.

There is every reason to believe that the troops will remain in Texas for at least four months. Meantime they will not be idle. The mobilization of the army will be taken advantage of to impart invaluable training to the officers and men of the regular establishment and to many officers of the state militia organizations, who will be sent to Texas from time to time during the maneuvers.

In a way the sending of the troops to Texas will give to the army the same valuable instruction and experience that came to the navy as a result of the cruise of the battleship fleet around the world.

President Taft hopes that the sending of the army to Texas will prove a peace move. He declared to several callers at the White House that he ought to be the last person in the world to be suspected of jingoism—that nothing was further from his mind. Political considerations, the president declared, had not entered into the operations from any possible angle.

Mr. Taft is fully aware that an attack is to be made upon him in congress by some of the Republican insurgents and possibly by some of the Democrats, but he is said to be prepared to defend his course from every point of view.

Rebels Stop Food Supply
El Paso, Tex., March 23.—News from the interior of the "war zone" states that the Mexican insurgents have surrounded many small towns and have notified the inhabitants that they will allow no provisions to reach them from the surrounding country. The insurgents have determined that the supply of provisions shall remain in their own hands, and it is feared that non-combatants will be subjected to still greater hardships by the blockade. Hundreds of refugees are reported to be fleeing toward the borders, many of them attempting to make the journey on foot.

NOT AIMED AT JAPAN

Taft Sets at Rest Jingo Stories in Regard to Mobilization

Washington, March 23.—Responding to a request from President Taft, Baron Uchida, the Japanese ambassador, called at the White House. Mr. Taft sent for the ambassador to say personally that there was absolutely no warrant or excuse for stories that have been printed to the effect that the United States in sending troops to the Mexican border had done so in expectation of a treacherous move by Japan.

The president said the reports were scarcely worth denying, but he desired to set them at rest for all time. The president asked Uchida to communicate these views directly to the Emperor of Japan.

Man Wrongly Convicted of Murder is Released From Prison

Pittsburg, March 20.—Andrew Toth was released from the penitentiary here after serving twenty years for a crime he did not commit. Toth was accused of murdering a fellow-workman at the Braddock furnaces, and sentenced to prison for life.

Recently it was discovered he was half a mile away from the scene of the crime. Governor Tener promptly signed the pardon.

Sculptor Says He is Unable to Collect Bill From Pugilist

New York, March 23.—Jack Johnson of Reno fame is again a defendant in an action at law. This time he is asked to come across with a mere $4000 and remove from the rooms of Sculptor Carlo Sciarra a bust of himself which the sculptor passed many trying days to fashion into a likeness of the conqueror of Jeffries.

"He said he would pay tomorrow, but when tomorrow came he said 'tomorrow,' and then when tomorrow came he did not come, for he had gone away," sorrowfully says the sculptor.

FIGHT OVER WOMAN AT COUNTRY DANCE

Assault on Old Man Who is Dead is a Fugitive

Burlington, Vt., March 23.—After lingering between life and death for four days, Cyrus Moffat, 60, a farmer, died in the mountain village of Beartown, where he was stricken down in a wild fight at a kitchen dance.

The man accused of the murder is Fred Depluis, 30, employed as a lumberman at one of the camps. He has disappeared and is roaming the mountain somewhere. His three brothers, who are charged with implication, are now under arrest.

The fight, it is reported, was caused by rivalry between a son of Moffat and Depluis over a young woman violinist, who furnished music for the dance.

REGRET PUBLICITY

Treasury Officials Otherwise Approve the Searching of Women

Washington, March 23.—The public criticism following the search of the baggage and persons of Mrs. Joseph W. Hull and her daughter of Savannah, Ga., on board the Lusitania by customs officials at New York, brought out this official statement from the treasury department:

"This examination disclosed the fact that there had been omitted from their declarations over $600 worth of dutiable merchandise. It has no comment to make upon the searching of the persons by the inspectors except to regret that the facts were made public."

PREACHER FOR MAYOR

Baptist Who Thinks Prohibition a Farce Heads "Wet" Ticket

Colorado City, Col., March 21.—A Baptist preacher for the head of a wet ticket is the anomalous situation here.

At a convention of the so-called Non-Partisan party, which is more generally referred to as the Liberal ticket, Rev. Duncan Lamont, former pastor of the Baptist church, was nominated for mayor.

He was one of the drafters of a platform which declared for high license as against prohibition, and declares that prohibition is a farce.

"The Apparel Of Proclaims the Man"

Goodyear Welt Shoes have more style and are better made than ordinary shoes.

Goodyear Welt Shoes are made by skilled operators on sixty machines brought to a high state of efficiency by The United Shoe Machinery Company.

They do what used to be done by hand. So far as stability is concerned the result is the same, but the work of the machines is more uniform and the product cleaner and more precise.

Ten years ago strictly hand made shoes cost from ten to twenty dollars. Today shoes just as durable and comfortable as if hand sewed may be had for a third these former prices.

The man of means and his family—the man of humble purse and his family—are placed on an equal Goodyear Welt footing. The one may have shoes as stylish, comfortable and durable as the other.

All the manufacturers who employ Goodyear Welt machinery use fine and solid leather in making Goodyear Welt Shoes. It is even impossible to construct shoes from cheap or poor leather on these rapid machines.

Obviously the insertion of five hundred close, strong stitches a minute prohibits the use of any but the best and strongest leather.

There are at least five hundred different Goodyear Welt shoes made by different manufacturers, but each is dependable, each is safe for you to buy. You are assured the best leather and great wearing quality. Let Goodyear Welt be your guide. Before buying your next pair of shoes write for our list containing the five hundred names of Goodyear Welta. This list is free. Your name and address brings it to you.

Also two other interesting booklets, one illustrating the Sixty Machines, the other "The Secret of The Shoe" will be sent you.

Disreputable Methods

One of the most striking movements in the business world during the last twenty years has been the change from individual ownership to corporation management. This is no new suggestion. It is simply stated to introduce a brief comment on one of the recent interesting incidents connected with a big corporation's advertising. It would be as useless to attempt to destroy the corporation method of doing business as to attempt to destroy the railroad method of transporting passengers. As the stage coach is to the modern train, so the average individual conduct of business is to the average modern corporation. Economy of management and facilities for business conduct have made the corporation an imperative necessity in the present methods of doing business.

Slowly but surely, the corporations have come to the position where, like the individual, they have felt the necessity of educating the public to believe in them, their business methods, and the goods they sell. There may still be a feeling on the part of some of the large corporations that because of their tremendous size, they do not need to get near to the people. To most of them, however, has come the desire to get closer to the people, both for the sake of a better acquaintance with the product they may have to sell, and to know more of the management of the corporation itself.

In this spirit the American Woolen Company, in which Andover is largely interested, has taken on a new line of activity, entering the advertising field with the story of the goods they make, and with a desire to familiarize the public with them. One of the results of this campaign is set forth in the last issue of Collier's Weekly, in one of the most disreputable business transactions that the average man can conceive of. Evidence is introduced of a more or less uncertain nature to show that an advertising agent (who certainly does not stand out in a very bright light as a clever advertising agent) has through a series of letters appeared to be a defender of legislative interests affecting his client, rather than in his proper sphere of business agent in placing advertising. There is absolutely nothing to indicate that the American Woolen Company itself deserves to be classed by any publication among those who have attempted to coerce the editorial influence of the press through large advertising space. But this particular "yellow journal" (and it has become the yellowest of the yellows) thinks it sees an opportunity, because of the current agitation of Schedule K, to make of itself a little more "holier-than-the-holiest" than it has ever claimed to be. To this end it charges that an effort is being made to coerce its opinions by advertising patronage.

Perhaps the magazine is sufficiently strong and has sufficient hold upon the morbid minds of the public which are so unsettled at the present time, (because these publications make them so) to continue to insult honest men and decent men by such treatment as is given to the American Woolen Company, but the time will come when the sober sense of the American people will assert itself and insist that just as fair play and just as full credit be given to the business performing its activities under corporation control as to other businesses that work under personal management.

If it is right for a law to be passed providing for incorporation of individuals into one larger co-operative concern for the better conduct of business, there is carried with that right, an obligation upon government to see that such corporations are protected in the conduct of business after they are incorporated. Such dirty insinuations as are contained in the Collier article may not call for governmental protection in the present instance, but hardly less important than the obligation of the government to protect, is the moral obligation upon the people of the country to resent imputations that have no more foundation in fact than does the action of this magazine in its latest effort to hold its position as the "king of the yellows."

President Treadway of the Senate hasn't after all entirely gone over to the labor agitators, and there is a great deal of saving grace in his actions during the past week in voting to defeat the public opinion and anti-injunction bills. It took good courage to take these two positions, and he is to be commended, not only by those who believe as he did, but by those who may be opposed to him, who cannot help recognizing that there is at least one man still in the Legislature who has some convictions, and who isn't sacrificing them for political ambition. There haven't been very many bright spots in the desert of political ambition that has spread over the State House during the past few months, but this is certainly to be marked by a bright beacon signifying that there is a little hope left for conservative, constructive ambition.

A late report of the organization back of the Savings Bank insurance movement indicates considerable progress in that work. The experimental stage is passing with promise of ultimate success, and Massachusetts will score one more point in the kind of progressive movement that really helps people.

THE TOWN BY A COUNTRYMAN AT HOME

An Efficient Public Servant

A gentleman who had occasion to go through the Ballardvale section of the town during the past week, has called the attention of the writer to the excellent condition in which many of the roads in that section are, as compared to the highways up in the centre district.

This is not the first time that the writer has noticed the superior work that is done in the Ballardvale section by the man who has for a number of years had that work in charge. He is not a trained road builder, and is a man who has never made any pretense of being an expert, but genuine common-sense treatment has made of John Haggerty one of the most useful public servants that the town has. His position is practically the same as that of the other drivers of town teams, yet because of the distance away from the head of the road department, he is given practical oversight of that section, so far as keeping it in repair is concerned.

It is a little surprising that the results he has secured have not led to a more general use of his methods in other sections, for his work gives the full value to the "stitch in time" creed, that may be applied to practically everything that is standing wear and tear. Mr. Haggerty does not wait until the road is worn out, but his whole labor during the entire season is devoted to a patch here, a load of gravel there, and clearing out the gutter in another section, so that wherever one goes in Ballardvale, he cannot help being impressed with the efficiency that is shown by the man who is doing intelligently this work of road repairing.

Mr. Haggerty is worth remembering when an account of stock is taken of the public officials who deserve the thanks of the community for faithful, intelligent, conscientious labor in a difficult place. We wish the town had more like him among its public servants.

Good Work, Well Done

The report of Mr. Stackpole, treasurer of the Andover Tuberculosis Committee, provides a deal of encouragement to those who have been interested in this movement. Contained in the report is a statement from the nurse in charge showing the general results that have been secured, and that the work now well under way promises much for stamping out this disease in Andover. Of course, it is well understood that it can never be eradicated, but once under control, the effective means that have been so well established are bound to make Andover comparatively free from the serious effects of tuberculosis.

The bright spots in the report are really very striking. Nearly double the number of individual givers have this year shared in furnishing the money that has been raised to carry on the work. New interests have been engaged in the work, and the amount of money that they have raised gives promise of still further and larger income for the work of the coming years. A balance of $6.10 a year ago, has now been carried to the handsome sum of $172.73, and this notwithstanding the fact that all necessary work has been done and an expansion of the work has taken place.

The movement is fortunate in the character of those who are in charge of it, and it is doubly fortunate in the more general interest taken in it by citizens of all kinds throughout the town. It is one of the good things that is being done by genuine, whole-souled, well-directed charity.

Guild Day

"Guild Day" is to be a new day in Andover, and really it looks as if it ought to be a "good day," and the question of whether it shall be an "annual day" or not, will depend upon the success of the first one to be held next Thursday. For the first year, the proprietors of Wonderland have arranged for a free exhibition at the theatre, afternoon and evening, and those who are back of "Guild Day" are selling tickets at ten cents each, hoping for a packed house until the time of closing at night. Aside from the fact that the show is well worth the price of admission, there is an added reason why one thousand of these tickets should be sold, in the needs of the Guild itself. The affair is under the direction of the Women's Auxiliary, from which much is to be expected in the line of interest and work for the Guild. If you don't want to go to Wonderland, pay twenty-five cents and stay at home. If you do want to go, pay ten cents and enjoy the show, being confident that the little help rendered is for a good cause. Incidentally the thanks of the public are due to the proprietors of Wonderland for generous help to this movement to raise funds.

The site of the old Mansion House on the hill is rapidly having a change made to its face, by the work of the contractors who have started another dormitory very similar to the one begun a month or so ago, south of Phillips Hall. After the Mansion House burned, it was believed that the building to take its place would be a fine, new administration building for the use of Phillips Academy, but since that time a new order of things has taken place up there, and the acquisition of the Seminary plant has made a new administration building as necessary as it was.

BUFFALO JONES

Well-known Lecturer Gives Story of His Remarkable Experiences to Large Audience

Those who attended the lecture given by "Buffalo Jones" in the chapel last Tuesday evening, heard one of the most remarkable lectures of its kind ever given in Andover. From beginning to end, Col. Jones' stories and pictures of his marvellous work in Africa were without parallel. His stories and anecdotes alone, without the accompanying views, would have been highly interesting, and the combination of pictures and stories kept the large audience which was in attendance in a state of marvel at the feats accomplished.

"Buffalo Jones," or Col. Charles J. Jones, comes from Las Vegas, New Mexico. Formerly he was game warden of Yellowstone Park. His title of "Buffalo Jones" he has earned from his endeavors to preserve the buffalo which were becoming almost extinct in the west. At one time, Col. Jones said, he, together with the other hunters, killed numberless buffalo for the skins only, receiving for them fifty cents apiece. At that time he resolved that, if the day arrived when the buffalo herds were threatened with extinction, he would do all in his power to preserve them. This resolve he has fulfilled to the letter, hence his title of "Buffalo Jones."

The first part of Col. Jones' lecture on Tuesday evening was devoted to a description of his boyhood, how from a mere child he had known and understood animals and longed to put into practice his theory that there is no animal but can be overcome by man. His earlier pictures showed scenes in Yellowstone Park, and of the deer and buffalo there. One of the most interesting of these was a fight between two buffalo bulls.

The chief part of his lecture, however, was in regard to his lassoing expedition to Africa last year, a journey which was financed by Charles S. Bird of East Walpole, and on which Col. Jones was accompanied by several American cowboys. In this expedition was also Guy Scull, brother of Mrs. B. H. Hayes of this town. It was through Mrs. Hayes' mother, Mrs. Gideon Scull, who was present at the lecture, that Col. Jones came to Andover.

Over 10,000 feet of moving picture films were shown, telling the story of Col. Jones' wonderful captures of the wild and elusive animals of the African jungle. Animals of all species knew the whizz of his lasso, the wild roar, the hartebeest, the eland, the cheetah, the lion and panther, the giraffe and the rhinoceros. The capture of the ungainly but fleet giraffe as shown by the moving pictures was thrilling, as was the overcoming of the cumbersome rhinoceros, who broke several ropes before he was finally captured. The most exciting film, however, was that of the capture of the lioness, long and lean and lithe. The pictures showed the lioness chasing the cowboys, in a thrilling pursuit seemingly only a few feet behind the nearest mount. A few minutes later the cloud of dust showed she was down, caught by the lasso. Then followed the task of tying her feet together and taking her to camp. There she was put into a cage, taken to the railroad and shipped to New York, where she was given to the Zoological Gardens in that city.

Most of the animals captured, however, were set free again, and several of the pictures showed clearly the astonishment of the creatures at finding themselves at liberty after their to them terrifying experience. One of the amusing films was that showing a zebra who was captured, and two minutes afterwards was mounted and ridden by a cowboy.

The feats performed by Col. Jones and his men are almost beyond belief and it was fortunate that pictures of the feats were shown, or in some cases the credulity of the audience must have been overtaxed. It seemed hardly possible that a man could climb a tree on one of whose limbs crouched a big cat or panther, armed only with a lasso, pursue the animal clear to the top of the tree, finally entangle him with the lariat and in a moment hold him suspended in the air, swinging by the rope. Such, however, was a common experience in Col. Jones' expedition and he says that the secret of his success was that he let the animals see that he was going to capture them, and then he went ahead and did it.

The lecture came too quickly to a close for the satisfaction of the audience, all of whom will be glad to welcome Col. Jones to Andover when he next comes this way.

Six Days' Old Heroine

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shevelin, who was just ending her sixth day the evening of the fire in West's bakery, wonders nobody said how brave she was. Her room, being at the head of the stairs, got very blue with smoke, and she had to stay under the bedclothes tent, with a new kind of air made of the steam of wet clothes, and wonders why the same good servant that put the fire out below helped keep up her little combustion.

A New Dry Goods Store

Andover is to have a new and up-to-date dry goods store in the larger one of the new stores provided by the Barnard Block, and apparently our people are fortunate in the character of the man who has decided to establish this new business.

Beginning in Reading fifteen years ago, F. G. MacDonald has made for himself an enviable reputation in our neighboring town as a business man. He went there originally as the Secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., but noting the opportunity in that community for a dry goods business, took hold of the same with such success that at the present time he is occupying nearly four times the space used in the original store.

Mr. MacDonald is possessed of a pleasing personality, and has behind him a business reputation of the very highest, assuring to the people in Andover the best sort of service, and a treatment that will lead the ladies of the town to learn to use the facilities he will provide, with a deal of satisfaction. No field seems to offer a better opening than the particular line in which Mr. MacDonald will engage, and a service, such as he is equipped by experience and connections to furnish, promises for his business career in Andover every prospect of success.

Civic League Meets

The annual meeting of the Andover Civic League of Christian churches was held on Tuesday evening in the Free church parish house. The election of officers for the coming year took place as follows: President, Rev. Frederic Palmer, D.D.; vice-president, Rev. F. R. Shipman; secretary, Frederic S. Boutwell; treasurer, John W. Bell.

Brief reports were heard from various committees of the League. The report of the tuberculosis committee, which was given by Rev. M. W. Stackpole, and included the report of the work of the district nurse is given in another column.

An interesting address was then made by Rev. H. W. Hook of Lowell, on the Lowell Federation of Churches. The speaker described the purpose, scope and organization of the federation in detail, and cited several incidents to show where the activities of the organization had accomplished great civic good. Mr. Hook was given a hearty vote of thanks by the audience at the close of his talk.

Those present were: Rev. H. W. Hook, Rev. Frederic Palmer, Rev. F. R. Shipman, Rev. W. E. Lombard, Rev. M. W. Stackpole, Colver J. Stone, John C. Angus, George B. Ripley, Charles W. Clark, John W. Bell, Harry Purington, Fred S. Boutwell, Alexander Dick.

FIGHTING THE WHITE PLAGUE

Andover Society Making Effective
Headway. Report of Treasurer

Andover has now enjoyed the services of a visiting nurse for three years. For two and a half Miss Dodge has given all her time to this work and the people of Andover heartily appreciate her ability and devotion. The figures given below will give a hint of the extent and exacting nature of her duties. A word of caution is in order against making needless demands upon Miss Dodge's time and strength.

The following are the statistics of Miss Dodge's work for 1910.

PATIENTS
Tuberculosis	36
Obstetrical cases	15
Operations	8
Infants (feeding)	6
Other patients	75
Persons advised	39
Total number patients	179

VISITS
Tuberculosis cases	491
Other cases	1713
Total	2204

(150 more than last year).

Tuberculosis
Miss Dodge's own statement with regard to tuberculosis is as follows:
The predisposing causes with us are occupation, ignorance concerning the nature of the disease, ignorance of personal hygiene, and most important of all, house infection.

All patients are instructed concerning the nature of their disease, the methods of cure, the necessity of a physician's care, and the danger of patent medicine, as well as in the methods of protecting their families and the community from infection.
Actual nursing is done wherever necessary, the more severe cases being visited frequently, incipient cases as often as possible, while the arrested cases are seen only occasionally. Sputum cups, paper napkins and bags have been provided for those who need but cannot acquire them. Simple appliances, such as air cushions, bed rests and steamer chairs, hot water bottles, etc., have been loaned as needed.

In case of death from tuberculosis, in addition to fumigation by the Board of Health, the family has been instructed as to cleaning the premises. I have also reported to the Board of Health whenever a tuber-culous patient for whom I am caring moves from one house to another, that the vacated house may be properly fumigated. In several instances, also at my suggestion, nourishment has been provided by other individuals and organizations.

As sanitarium treatment is the most valuable educational factor available, both incipient and advanced cases are encouraged to spend some time in one of these institutions whenever possible.

Of eight advanced cases which have been visited, four have died. Of the remaining four, one is slightly improved, the rest unimproved. One of these patients was treated for a time at North Reading, and another at Tewksbury.

Of eleven incipient and suspected cases, two have moved from town, and two have improved decidedly.
The remaining seven are only slightly or not at all improved. Nine of these eleven are known to have been open cases during at least part of the year.

Of ten arrested cases, which had been visited in incipient stages during previous years, two have removed from town, and suitable employment has been found for one.
The remaining seven are now living hygienic lives in comparative comfort.

I should like to thank, especially, the volunteer visitors who helped during last winter, the officers of the Andover Guild for access to their loan closet, the doctors, pastors, and others who have so kindly co-operated in the work, and also the friends who have given flowers, magazines, old cotton and linen, and food.
Magazines are especially acceptable.

I should like to emphasize especially the importance of the work among artificially fed infants. This I believe to be a most valuable field of usefulness, in which our efforts ought to be still further increased.

An Attractive Boat

Allen F. Abbott, the local carpenter, whose home is at 33 High street, has just finished building and is exhibiting to his friends and those interested, a 30-foot power boat. Mr.
Abbott began work on the boat a year ago last Thanksgiving, and has worked on it at odd moments only, and has completed his task with very little assistance. The plans from which he worked were for an open boat, but Mr. Abbott has added a 7-foot cabin, with ample room in it to provide sleeping accommodations for two. There is also plenty of storage room. As this is the third boat built by Mr. Abbott he has benefited by his former experiences and has taken care to finish every part of the little craft in the best possible manner, making it a perfectly seaworthy craft well able to make a trip to the Maine coast or into southern waters.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my thanks to the many neighbors and friends, who, by kindly thought and service, or by gifts of flowers, have expressed their sympathy in my recent affliction.

K. of P. Ladies' Night

The first anniversary of Garfield lodge, K. of P., was fittingly observed on Wednesday evening of this week by "ladies' night." In spite of the rain which set in in the early evening, there was a good attendance, and all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

An excellent entertainment had been prepared by the committee in charge, but owing to the failure of some of the performers to appear until a late hour, a halt had to be called about nine o'clock. No one minded the interruption in the least, however, as during it refreshments were served, consisting of sandwiches, coffee, doughnuts and cheese, ice cream and cake. The program was soon resumed, and at its conclusion the party adjourned to Pilgrim hall, where dancing was enjoyed. Pearce's orchestra of Lawrence furnished excellent music for the occasion.

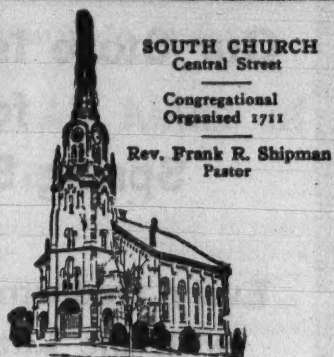

The program consisted of the following contributions:

- Selections by Pearce's Orchestra
Songs
Mr. Raymond
Readings
Master D. Joseph Reynolds
Comic Songs
Joseph Carney
Songs
Miss May Bagshaw
Readings
Miss Dorothy Marsh
Songs
Joseph Blott
Duets
Miss Bagshaw and Mr. Blott

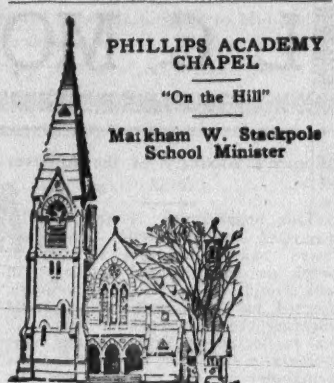

Special mention should be made of the readings by little Miss Marsh and Master Reynolds, as they formed a distinct feature of the evening.

The committee in charge of the occasion consisted of D. C. Young, chairman; W. H. Pearce, John Buchanan, David McIntosh, and George Abbott.

Preaching

I am reading a book called "Lamps, Pitchers and Trumpets," lectures on the vocation of the preacher, by Edwin Paxton Hood, minister of Queen Square chapel, Brighton, and published by Dodd & Co., Broadway, New York, 1869.

There are books and books. I cannot settle down to read what I think is a stupid, insipid novel. I have still a taste for bread-and-butter; pies and pastry don't digest well, besides they leave a bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning. I have not enjoyed reading a book for a long time, but these "Lamps, Pitchers and Trumpets" caught me and I read the whole 431 pages and then reread all over again. Of course the saying that one man's meat is another's poison, holds true in reading as well as in eating.

I will say as little as possible about preaching, and quote from this 1869 book some little bits which may give variety to this "musing."

The "cinder" about some Boston preachers in the Townsman has led me to preach this week, or at least head this letter "Preaching."

The story of the old Irish church officer should make all of us hold preaching to be a fine art. A clergyman failed to conduct the services, as an accident on the railroad kept him an hour late. The sexton who has been sexton for thirty years, was asked to conduct the services. It being an Episcopal church, he got on all right and read the prayers, including of course the prayer for "us miserable sinners." But when he came to try to preach he said, "If any of you good people have any conceit of yourselves, come up here and do the preaching!"

I will now speak of Mr. Hood's admirable book on preaching which he divides into nine lectures. The first lecture is on the vocation of the preacher, speaking of a certain kind of preacher not unknown at the present day, who was invisible for six days and on the seventh he was incomprehensible, and of the young man who applied to the bishop for ordination and was told by the reverend father that he would not prevent him from preaching, but that both nature and grace did. Mr. Hood goes on to mention many scores of celebrated preachers who were comprehensible and had grace. These good men and able preachers were not confined to any church. "St. Bernard" gets a whole lecture to show how able and godly a man he was, and several of his sermons and addresses are given. I quote a bit of St. Bernard's speech to the Knights of the Temple: "You always run a risk, you worldly soldiers, of either killing your adversary's body and your own soul in consequence, or of being killed yourself, both body and soul."

The above sensible advice about war given 800 years ago by a man who decided who was to be pope after the death of Pope Honorius II, on February 14, 1130, should be a lesson for us in 1911, when we send to the borders of Mexico 20,000 men, who do not know (as St. Bernard quaintly says) whether they are to kill somebody or be killed.

I merely remark here that railways, telephones and automobiles have not changed a thing we call human nature during these 800 years. There is plenty of work for the preacher of sound doctrine and consistent practice.

Of wit and humor in the pulpit, Mr. Hood gives many instances. His remark that a pedantic prig is just about as bad as a clown trying to preach, shows that he is not adverse to good common-sense preachers. Vulgar and profanity in the pulpit was also a racy chapter. The tedious preacher is also mentioned. "I have, as I have said, enjoyed 'Lamps, Pitchers and Trumpets.' There is not a dull page in the book. I finish this rambling sermon by quoting verbatim from a specimen of the humorous sermon: 'It may be sixty years since there frequently came to Bristol a well-known and beloved Methodist preacher, Rev. Mr. Breeze; they liked to call him Sammy Breeze in Wales. He came from the mountains of Cardiganshire and spoke tolerably good English. At a revival meeting the first speaker, a young man with some tints of academical training and with some of the livid lights of a then incipient Rationalism on his mind, took for his text, 'He that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not shall be damned,' but he condoned the heavy condemnation, and in an affected manner shaded off the darkness of the doom of unbelief very much in the style of another preacher who told his hearers that he feared lest they should be doomed to a place which good manners forbade him from mentioning.' The young man also grew sentimental and begged pardon of an audience rather more politely than usual for the sad statement made in the text. 'But indeed,' said he, 'he that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not—indeed, I regret to say, I beg your pardon for uttering the terrible truth—but indeed he shall be sentenced to a place which I here dare not mention.' Then rose Sammy Breeze. He began, 'I shall take the same text tonight which you have just heard. Our young friend has been very foine tonight; he has told you some very polite things. I am not very foine and I am not very polite but I will preach a little bit of Gospel to you, which is this—He that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not shall be damned, and I asks no pardons.' He continued, 'I do look round on this chapel, and I do see people all very learned and intellectual. You do read books and you do study studies and books and you do think that you can mend God's book and are very sure you can mend me. You have great what you call thoughts—and poetries. But I will tell you one little word and you must try to mend that, but if you do, it will be all the same. It is this, look you, 'He that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not shall be damned,' and I begs no pardons. And then I do look round your chapel and I do see you are foine people, well dressed, well-to-do people; you are not only nious, but you have very foine hymn books and cushions and some red curtains, for I do see you are very rich and you have got your monies and are getting very proud. But I will tell you it does not matter at all—and I do not mind it at all not one little bit—for I must tell you the truth, and the truth is, 'He that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not shall be damned,' and I begs no pardons!"

I would like to quote more from Sammy Breeze. It is refreshing like the breezes from the Welsh hills.

IAN McDOUGALL.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATRES

Boston Theatres

Park—"The Commuters."
Boston—"Naughty Marietta."
Grand Opera House—"A Self Made Man."
Castle Sq—"The End of the Bridge."
Colonial—"The Girl of My Dreams."
Shubert—"The Nigger."
Majestic—"The Lottery Man."
Tremont—"Green Stockings."

PARK

Every audience which has witnessed the nearly five weeks of performances of the "Commuters" at the Park theatre, has shown unmistakable signs of thorough enjoyment of this farcical comedy. So true, and at the same time irresistibly funny are the pictures drawn of the suburbanite that the play is proving to be a marked success.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE

The story of a man who started as a newsboy and fought his way to a position of financial power in Wall street is being played at the Grand Opera House in "A Self Made Man." Money matters and matrimonial unhappiness figure largely in the piece. The play is well mounted and Thomas E. Shea, the "self made man" has adequate support at all times.

TREMONT

Margaret Anglin and "Green Stockings," are continuing to fill the Tremont with large audiences at each performance. All declare that Miss Anglin is one of the marked successes of the year. The play closes its engagement next week, and the next offering will be a new musical comedy, "Jumping Jupiter."

COLONIAL

"The Girl of My Dreams" still continues its popularity at the Colonial. An excellent reception has been given this charming musical play which unites dainty melodies and wholesome fun.

CASTLE SQUARE

The interest in "The End of the Bridge," the $500 prize play written by Miss Florence Lincoln, a Radcliffe student, is remarkable. The success of the piece has been heightened by the skillful handling of the John Craig stock company. Next Monday "Why Smith Left Home" will be produced.

"NAUGHTY MARIETTA AT THE BOSTON THEATRE

"Naughty Marietta," in which Mlle. Emma Trentini has scored such a tremendous success at the Boston Theatre, will next Monday night enter upon the last week of its engagement. The little prima donna whose previous appearances in Boston have been restricted to several hearings in grand opera under Mr. Oscar Hammerstein's management had never been given occasion to display her remarkable vocal and histrionic talents until she was heard here in this new Victor Herbert opera. Orville Harrold, the tenor of the organization, has made a hit second only to that of Mlle. Trentini's and at each performance he is given many recalls for his superb rendition of the music which falls to his part. The song, "I'm Falling in Love with Someone," is a superb bit of vocalism and gives Mr. Harrold an opportunity to take the high E flat for which he is justly famous. Mme. Maria Duchene, the splendid contralto, and Edward Martindel, the basso, are each heard to the best advantage in their respective roles while Miss Kate Elinore and Harry Cooper to whom are intrusted the comedy element make the most of their opportunity. It is doubtful if there has ever been heard in Boston a chorus which sings so musically and which at the same time is equal to the dramatic demands imposed upon it. This is due to the fact that almost all the members of the choral body sang in Mr. Hammerstein's grand opera company during the four years that he held sway at the celebrated Manhattan Opera House.

Lawrence Opera House

"St. Elmo," which is being played this week by the Lawrence Stock company at the Lawrence opera house is a play that can be seen over and over again without surfeiting, and the more it is digested, the more it is enjoyed.

Miss Gertrude Shipman is winning many new friends by her portrayal of little Edna Earl Hunt, granddaughter of the village blacksmith. This role is entirely different from anything she has essayed since the stock season opened, and gives further proof of her wonderful versatility. Arthur Behrens is making an ideal St. Elmo, following closely the author's conception. The production differs in no way from a high priced production.

The great sex against sex play, "Sowing the Wind," will be the bill next week, and unless all signs fail, it will prove a real treat to the patrons of the stock company. "Sowing the Wind," was written by Sydney Grundy, and was first produced with wonderful success by Charles Frohman in his Empire theatre in New York. The battle of sex against sex in the third act is one of the greatest dramatic scenes ever penned, and has done as much toward putting men and women on an equal footing as all the suffragette meetings of the past ten years.

METHUEN

Methuen, Sunday night, aged 68 years. Mr. Brown's wife, Marietta, died Monday noon, 12 hours after the death of her husband.

The adjourned town meeting in Methuen was held Saturday afternoon when the remaining articles of the warrant, which were not reached at the meeting a week ago, were disposed of. Moderator Granville E. Foss again presided. There were lively discussions on several articles, especially on those calling for the installing of lights in various sections of the town.

A rather complicated situation seems to have arisen in Methuen and as a result of the alleged illegal voting on Saturday at the adjourned town meeting by non-voters, several of whom, it is said, are residents of Lawrence, there is a possibility that the entire, or at least a greater portion of the business transacted at the annual town meeting and adjourned session will be declared illegal and will have to be gone over again in special town meeting.

"Talking Scotland"

Mrs. Jennie Blackwell of Philadelphia felt rather proud last night when she arrived here from Colon on the steamship Metapan for having brought together two old friends on the run up the coast to New York. On the first day out from the Isthmus she met a fellow passenger named David Cochrane, an engineer, of Philadelphia. Being a fellow townsman, Mrs. Blackwell felt free to ask him many questions about himself. Among other things she learned that Cochrane had come from Scotland. On the third day at sea Mrs. Blackwell met John Johnson, the chief engineer of the Metapan, also a Scotchman. She told Cochrane about the chief and introduced them.

"You're both Scotch," she said. "Now talk Scotland."

"What part are ye frae?" asked Cochrane.

"Arbroath," replied Johnson. "And yer full name?"

"David," replied Cochrane, dryly. "My name is John Johnson," said the chief. "I'm from Arbroath. Did ken a schoolmaster named Davidson?"

"Maxwell Davidson? Ay! I wen to his school," said Cochrane. "I ken ye weel, laddie. I played wi ye forty years ago. Come aft, mon, an hae a wee drappie."

The two Scotchmen walked to the chief's cabin singing "Auld Lang Syne."—From the New York Tribune.

EASTERN OFFICE 203 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, BOSTON MASS

Fortunes are annually expended in proclaiming as "Best on Earth" flour that never rise above the dead level of mere goodness.
"ONWARD" Flour towers above this level as a lofty mountain peak, in solitary grandeur, commands the surrounding plain.
Diamonds cost more than rhinestones. "ONWARD" costs a little more than other flour, but it is worth much more. Diamonds outwear rhinestones. "ONWARD" outlasts other flours. We ask the consumer to be both judge and jury.
"ONWARD" Flour costs a little more than many of these advertised as the "Best in the World" but no more than some other flours.
"ONWARD" costs more than ordinary flours, but consumers—the judge and jury who have tried it—decide that it excels in quantity as in quality. If you use "ONWARD" Flour you get lowest cost bread.
